Unknowing

Anything can break it,

cracking its composure.

A simple twist, just enough to make it spin.

Round and round

 like a top,

or maybe carousel horses.

Filled with confusion,

not knowing which road to take

 or where to go.

The muddled mind is a

mysterious thing.